SooToday.com, the website that never, ever misses an opportunity to post gratuitous images of Catherine Taddo, is pleased to announce that Pat Pshogious and Rusty McCarthy have assembled an all-local compilation CD titled Soocoustic.

There's a launch party this weekend at Loplops.

Catherine will be there.

The following was sent to us by Loplops' Steve & Jenn, who sadly have lost the use of their computer's 'shift' key, rendering them totally and completely 'shiftless':

friday september 15th - soocoustic cd release party (night one) ... eight local artists that contributed songs to this amazing 20 track acoustic compilation album will be hitting the stage featuring kelly macgillivray, kyle mckey, doug cousineau, mark dunn, debi strain, rusty mccarthy, randy foreman and phat bastidz ... tickets are only $10 and you get a free copy of soocoustic with your purchase.

saturday september 16th - soocoustic cd release party (night two) ... there was so much great talent in the sault that we had to spread this over two nights... artists featured on the second night would include lindsay pugh, frank bock, lynne reville, warren reville, frank deresti, jay case, catherine taddo and craig west... again tickets are $10 for this night and includes the soocoustic cd (unless you bought a cd the night before then show it at the door and come right in)
